Not Sick a Day Since.

I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your electric Bitters and I determined to try that! After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not been a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver & Kidney troubles and General Debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes only 50c, at Allen & Woodward, Drugists.

The Order of Succession. "Of course," said the bachelor, thoughtfully, "there can be no such thing as joint rule in a family. Some one must be the head."

"True, but the scepter passes from one to another." "How?" "Well, at the beginning of married life the husband holds it; then it gently and unobtrusively passes to the wife, and he never gets it back again."

"She keeps it forever." "Oh, no; the baby gets it next."—Chicago Post.

Writing to Humor Her. Doctor—You say you always burn this lamp in your room all night? Woman—Always. I can't sleep without a lamp.

Doctor—My dear madam, I can give you a few simple chemicals which you can easily mix before retiring. They will give off just as much blood-poisoning and sleep-inducing gas as a lamp, and won't be half so much trouble.—N. Y. Weekly.

Honors Easy. "This dollar," began the cashier of the restaurant, as he scrutinized the coin.

"Is bad, eh?" interrupted the sour-looking patron.

"Well, it doesn't look very good."

"That so? Just bite it, and if it's anything like the dinner I had it'll taste even worse than it looks."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Friendly Criticism. Clara—Mr. Simpson paid you a great compliment last night.

Maudie—Indeed! What did he say?

Clara—He said you seemed to be growing more beautiful every day.

Maudie—That was nice.

Clara—Yes; and I reminded him of the old adage about practice making perfect.—Chicago Daily News.

Of Course They Is. Editor—What do you mean by saying "lots of people think?"

Reporter—Why not?

Editor—Don't you know that a plural-substantive cannot take a singular verb?

Reporter—Oh! but you must admit that lots of people are singular.—Philadelphia News.

Stupendously Located. "I will bring some verses to you to-morrow," said the would-be writer to the editor he met out one evening.

"Is your office conveniently situated?"

"Oh, yes," replied the scribe, pleasantly, "the hospital is just across the way from my office."—Yonkers Statesman.

An Answer with a Sting. "No," said the rich old bachelor, "I never could find time to marry."

"Well," replied the young woman with the sharp tongue, "I am not surprised to hear you say so. It certainly would have taken a good while to persuade any girl to have you."—Tit-Bits.

Easily Arranged. "I hope you will not say anything you will be sorry for."

"I can assure you that I will not."

"You will endeavor to express yourself in moderate language?"

"Not at all. I shall simply refuse to be sorry."—Washington Star.

The Disgruntled Father. "My tastes," said the extravagant son, "are inherited."

"Yes," retorted the angry father, "everything you have is inherited. You haven't gumption enough to acquire even a taste by individual effort."—Chicago Post.

ACCURATE PROPHECY.

"What did the old gypsy woman tell you?"

"She said I was about to suffer a great loss."

"Did it come true?"

"Yes, indeed! Shortly after I left her I found my watch and chain missing!"—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Severe Test. The man who thinks himself most wise finds out when he is told that he is wrong. When his small boy affectionately calls to him he says, "Daddy, I know."

More Home Talk. Meeks—Who was the best man at your wedding, old man?

Weeks—Sometimes I am almost persuaded that my wife was.—Chicago Daily News.

Wanted an Advertisement. Hotel Clerk—Will you leave your diamonds in the safe, ma'am?

Actress—Certainly not. I want them where they can be stolen.—Judge.

Some Excuse for Tabby. He—Why, there is a cat at the museum that smokes cigarettes.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902. I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

LA GRIPPE

Pneumonia follows La Grippe but never follows the use of

FOLEY'S Honey and Tar

It stops the Cough and heals the lungs. Prevents Pneumonia and Consumption.

Mr. G. V. VORNER, of 187 Ogden St., Chicago, writes: "My wife had La Grippe and it led her with a very bad cough on her lungs which Foley's Honey and Tar cured completely."

PROVIDE SOME COMFORT.

Every Farm Should Have an Attractive Yard, a Vegetable Garden and a Berry Patch.

I think very few farmers appreciate the comforts they might enjoy from farm life if they would only make their spare time count and try to make their farms and homes neat and attractive. Very few have their lawns graded or use a lawnmower. Why not grade up the yard, cut the burdock and sprouts from around the cherry trees, nail up those loose clapboards on the house and paint it. Clean up around the barn and remove those old broken down fences and cut them up for wood.

All these things do not require much money. I can see no excuse for some farmers having disreputable looking dooryards, for if they used their spare time to advantage, a year or two will make a great improvement.

Fence off a place for a garden, remove all stones and rubbish and make the ground rich. Plant small vegetables, such as onions, radish and lettuce in straight rows one foot apart and cultivate with wheel hoe. Larger vegetables plant farther apart and cultivate with horse. Better have a small garden well worked than a large one half worked.

Do not forget the strawberries. Have them on the table from the first of June until August. How many go to town to buy berries for shortcake for Sunday? Perhaps one quart, sometimes two or three, and this for a large family. Sometimes they buy once in the season, sometimes every Sunday. These people do not know what they miss.—Orange Judd Farmer.

"Dry Dust" for Spraying.

Mr. L. A. Goodman stated recently that spraying was to-day a necessity with the progressive apple grower. He had been testing the merits of "dry dust spray," and while he did not feel qualified to state that it was altogether an improvement over the old liquid form; yet he had seen it to use it exclusively on an orchard of over 400 trees. Thoroughness seemed to be the keynote to success. As to the "dry dust," he pronounced it safe, cheap, easily applied and no water hauling necessary. His formula is as follows: Lime, 20 pounds; paris green, one pound; dry Bordeaux, one pound; sulphur, one pound; concentrated lye, pulverized, one pound. The dry dust spray is without doubt rapidly gaining friends, and we will all know more about it a few months hence.—Midland Farmer.

When to Feed the Fowls.

Feed at regular hours, giving the lightest meal in the morning, as it is better to have the fowls a little hungry rather than overfed, so as to induce them to work for scattered grains. It is not advisable to feed at noon. The heaviest feed for poultry should be at night, as rest and quiet favor digestion, while a full stomach is the best protection against cold during winter nights. If any corn is given, it should be at night. In winter it will be all the better if it is warmed and some of it charred. At night, when exercise is impossible, no unnecessary burden should be placed on the system. In the morning it is better to feed poultry with grain scattered among straw, thus compelling them to scratch for it.

Salt should be in constant supply. Sheep like good, clean and warm quarters in winter and plenty of good fodder.

AGRICULTURAL BRIEFS.

One of the latest novelties is canned Belgian hares.

Quails (partridges) are multiplying so fast in some California vineyards that they damage crops.

In one day recently there were received at Chicago 41,905 head of cattle, being 5,000 more than ever before received in one day.

Good country roads are not only in a sense distance annihilators, but they enable the farmers to double the wagon loads with no real increased labor for the teams.

Farmers should study the displays of farm implements and machinery at the agricultural fairs. In these days when it is so difficult to secure farm labor it is well to be thoroughly posted on all labor-saving machines.

The farmer has many enemies to contend with. It is estimated that $50,000,000 a year is lost by hog cholera, and that $300,000,000 worth of field crops are annually destroyed by insects. Fall plowing destroys many of the insect pests.

Legumes on Stock Farms.

In some Delaware tests it was shown that alfalfa, cowpeas and crimson clover were great factors in reducing the concentrated feed bills of dairy-men and other stockmen. It was shown that the maximum crops of alfalfa yielded 1,230 pounds of protein per acre or an equivalent of 1 1/2 tons of cottonseed meal. The maximum crops of cowpeas and crimson clover contained each about 725 pounds of protein. A crop of clover and one of peas may be made into hay annually from the same acre of land, hence where alfalfa fails to thrive these crops may be used as a substitute.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Time Will Tell the Tale.

The "wise ones"—those who watch weather conditions closely and who study nature, predict a bountiful harvest the coming year. Not for many years have we had so bountiful a fall of snow as this, and the steady cold that has settled over the middle west reminds one of the winters of "ye olden time." If there is virtue in snow and cold, we certainly have had enough to insure an extra heavy harvest; time alone will tell the tale.—Midland Farmer.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years although I am now 91 years old."
